

ALL COUS FIGHT WITH CANADIANS

Dr. O. D. Weeks Says 100,000 of Them in France; Praises Canada's Spirit.

One hundred thousand Americans are on the British front, "somewhere in France," with the 300,000 Canadian troops who have covered themselves with glory, and more are going over in the future, according to Dr. O. D. Weeks, formerly a practicing physician in El Paso, brother of Dr. W. K. Weeks, who is visiting, and for two years a surgeon in the Canadian army. Dr. Weeks returned to the United States on the steamship Olympic about three months ago and since that time he has been making a tour of the country before going back to duty in France.

Surgeon With "Princess Pats."
As a surgeon with the famous "Princess Pats," named after princess Patricia of Connaught, daughter of the former governor general of Canada, Dr. Weeks was in the thick of the fighting on the western front during the earlier part of the war. "The Princess Pats" battalion was the finest body of troops that I have ever seen and are a credit to Canada. In the battle of Ypres, Belgium, the regiment, which numbered 1100, was reduced to 101, and in a second fight after being recruited up it was reduced down to 73," said Dr. Weeks. "They have been in the thick of every fight of any importance."

15,000 Canadians in Hospitals.
There are at present about 15,000 wounded Canadians in British army hospitals. Canada has about 200,000 troops at the front of which 100,000 are United States boys. Canada has shown a wonderful spirit during the war in the number of men sent to the front, the enormous sums of money expended and in other ways. I do not believe there is a chance for the Germans to win, as the allies are becoming stronger every day and they have plenty of munitions.

Has Point of Deadly Shell.
Dr. Weeks after an article attack secured the head of a small shell known as the "Canadian 29." The shell was numbered before it left the Canadian trench one morning and was aimed at a German hill. The shell burst squarely above the hill, killing 29 Germans. The Canadians charged and captured the trench, and the point of the shell was given to Dr. Weeks for a souvenir.

TROOP QUARANTINE STOPS PNEUMONIA SPREAD IN CAMP

A noticeable decrease in the number of cases of pneumonia among the troops of the El Paso military district has followed the quarantine of regular and national guardmen here which was placed in effect by the medical corps officers on March 1. Reports to the medical headquarters at El Paso from the hospital at Fort Bliss show that the average of new cases of pneumonia, which was 12 a day before the quarantine was put into effect, has been reduced to one a day. Reports that the medical corps would extend the quarantine to April 1, when the present quarantine of two weeks expires on March 15, were denied by medical corps. It was stated that there will be better results if the quarantine is extended to April 1, when the number of cases of pneumonia among the troops.
